

Security Essentials for Small Businesses

Think you're too small to catch the attention of hackers?

For many years, small businesses were an unlikely target for a sophisticated cyberattack. This is not the case anymore. Smaller companies are attractive because they tend to have weaker online security and are doing more business than ever online via cloud services that don't offer strong encryption and security controls to protect systems and data.

Introducing Security Essentials

Security essentials is a cost effective security assessment package designed for companies with 20 or less employees that require Cybersecurity Risk Assessment. The service includes the following:
